

Primary Care Networks: Your new-look customer

Wilmington Healthcare has the most up-to-date information on the newly-forming Primary Care Networks (PCNs), helping you to understand who's who, what they do and what their priorities are.

PCNs are transforming primary care. Consisting of groups of practices that collaborate locally, PCNs will cover 30,000–50,000 people and are the building blocks for Integrated Care Systems (ICSs). Industry needs to understand how PCNs will operate and how to engage with them.

Understand what is happening in PCNs

Quantis has the best available information on the practices that form the PCNs including referral activity, cost of varying healthcare provision, QOF, and prescribing data; providing localised insight supported by significant real-world evidence.
